

Stechlin-Dialoge
Short-term retreats for selected companies at the Stechlin-Institut

The Stechlin-Institut is based on the experience of the power of artistic thinking and social commitment: rethinking things and questioning the supposedly immovable are necessary to shape the transformation of our society. In the middle of the forest and near the Großer Stechlinsee, 80km north of Berlin, the former manor house Neu-Roofen is at our disposal. The house offers optimal conditions for a concentrated working stay, individually or with your team. It takes at least 2 days/nights to get up and down here. It is a place for encounters, which is ideally suited to work on one's own questions, to recharge energy reserves at the same time, to jump into the surrounding lakes and - thanks to low light pollution - to look deep into space. Once again this year, we invite you to work stays – and are looking forward to great encounters!

Who: Teams of non-profit organizations and charitable initiatives, social entrepreneurs, social activists; artists and artist groups who deal with the social potential of their work; In other words, people who have decided to be part of the solution and not the problem. You are welcome as teams or individuals. Overall, the house can comfortably accommodate up to 20 people, in summer up to 30. To maintain a concentrated working atmosphere for everyone; please no children and no dogs.

Where: At the Stechlin Institute, a good hour north of Berlin in the middle of the forest near Lake Stechlin; easy to reach by public transport and/or bicycle; Unfortunately, not yet barrier-free.

What: The house offers a mixture of rough aesthetics and meaningful pragmatism - sustainably implemented. Most rooms are large and open – there are hardly any single or double rooms. Equipped with an immense kitchen with wood and gas stove, a large table for eating and working, a fireplace room with a fat stove. Three bathrooms and up to 20 beds. Around the house there is a huge meadow and old trees provide shade.

The Wifi with broadband connection runs stable, mobile reception is, however, as often in Brandenburg, rather meager. Our hybrid box makes screenings, video meetings and presentations super easy. With room and clip-on microphones, webcam and its own power supply, which can also be charged with the sun, it can also be used on the meadow in conjunction with a mobile screen. If you prefer analogue: Many blackboards and flipchart stands are also there. And for the surrounding area: The Berlin faradgang has made a bunch of bicycles afloat again for the institute - expect 10 functioning bikes plus a tandem!

In order for you to do without the car and to enable you to get a CO2 reduced and relaxed journey by train and bike, we would be happy to buy drinks (water, beer, soda) for little money for you. And if the time is too scarce, our friends from the Bric-à-Brac are happy to cater you with an exquisite quiche, cake salé and fine cake (some vegetarian, some vegan).

How: We curate the initiatives that are coming. Simply download the registration form from our website stechlin-institut.org, fill it out and send it to us. Or you can contact us: info@stechlin-institut.org or 033082 40 29 73 and we will send you the form.

Admission: The Stechlin Institute is recognized as a work of art - that's why we require entry for use. Your own contribution to the costs is the same as for NGOs 25 € per person per day (+ 7%VAT). Since this does not cover the expenses we ask you for a donation - best the same figure as the admission. Due to this you are facilitating the stay of the NGOs - of course we will provide you with a donation receipt for this. Attention: You can find conditions for cancellations at the terms and conditions. Bed linen (sheets, duvets, pillow cover) and towel please bring yourself for eco-reasons! Otherwise there is a lot of laundry and we don't have a dryer. If it doesn't work,

Liability of your registration: The SI is a place of idealists for idealists and it is calculated very tight. If you have to cancel or come with fewer people, others are taken their possibility to come. We would like you to consider this, otherwise this place is dead in no time. Please arrive in the registered number, otherwise the cancellation conditions will apply. As sorry as we are - but ultimately it is just fair for all the others who went out empty.

Resources: We live in disruptive times and ecosystem services have become precarious. Energy is scarce and water is precious in Brandenburg. Please handle these goods carefully. Within the scope of our possibilities, we have done what we can to make your stay as sustainable as possible. With your arrival via public transport / bicycle instead of car you can make a huge contribution yourself. (FYI: A km by car causes about 150g CO₂, the same distance by train is about 32g CO₂, by bike it is then 0g).

Last but not least. Cleaning: In order to make the house available to you as cheaply as possible in the future, the residents clean themselves, also because we think it is important that care work is not externalized. Please allow an hour for cleaning. Everyone who uses the house takes on some responsibility for ensuring that the Stechlin Institute remains a beautiful place - especially for others who come directly after you.
